

Back On the Highway Again

Back on the highway again
Travelling down a road that never ends
Searching for something I don't know
Can't seem to change this life my friend

Long lonely miles I travel
Trying to make friends along the way
One Look into their eyes tells me
That the lights went out there long ago

Chorus

I can't show you my rainbow
I can't seem to find that pot of gold
But something drives me on still searching
I'll find it at the end so I'm told

So make me an offer that saves me
Something to cure this rambling soul
And I can read the silence of the mountains
As reaching the end of my goal
